OPPOSITION TO RAILROADS.

A HARD STORY.

There is a doctor in the north-western part of this consolidated city, who is especially remarkable for bent as the word term it, "sick and cruel" task or two since he was called to visit a patient who was laboring under a severe attack of chapped whiskers.

"Well, doctor, I'm down you see; completely floors out. I've got the Tremendous disease, you know."

"Presentments, you fool! where'd you get your rum?" queried the doctor.

"All over in spots, broke out promiscuously, doctor."

"I'll give you right. Where did you get your rum?"

"Father died of the same disease; took him under the short ribs and cook him off bodily!"

"Well, you've got to take something immediately. You're a trump, doctor; here, wife, I'll take a nip of old rum."

"Lie still, my husband. Mrs. B., if you return home in such a worse before I return home."

"I'll be in a hour, just as prepared a dose of that trunk strap, maybe will give him to a sense of his folly."

The doctor sallied out gruffly and within an hour was in again and found his patient in the Dr. D'Amour Tremendum in a terrible condition, writhing and struggling with pain. His wife, a female of the plain and ignorant school, came up, and laying her hand upon the doctor's said,

"Doctor, I gave him the strap, as you directed."

"Did you thrash him well?"

"Thrashed him exclaim the astonished woman, "No, but I cut the strap into lash, and made him swallow it!"

"O Lord, doctor," roared the victim, "I must have cut myself!"

"But what?"

"I swallowed the whole strap, but I could not get the buckle!"

The doctor administered two broad pills, and evaporated.

KISSING A BACHELOR.—A correspondent relates the following from a friend—We have a pretty, young bachelor friend—very fond of ladies, but extremely modest and diffident withal. A few evenings since he went to make a call upon an acquaintance who had recently taken to himself a wife, young and beautiful, and, as a consequence, overflowing with affections for his bride. Now, this fellow, of a week's walk like all other wives, could scarcely survive the brief absence of her husband for the discharge of his business, and always upon his return met him upon the threshold, and mothered him with love. He soothed her, etc., when she cried, that the husband was absent, but monetarily expected to return by the end of the week. The wife was a full and throbbing breast was strained to his! Here was a trying situation for a diffident young man, and our friend came near to fainting on the spot; but finally, and he escaped from the house more dead than alive. The last we saw of him, he was leaning against a tree, fanning himself with his sombre, in order to recover strength regain his lodgings.

THE PRINTERS'S STORY.—We inc saw a young man going at the "ry" heavens with a gun in his hand. We interceded 2 inst his shot by line 2 in a paper we held in our hands relating 2 a young man in that g of the country, who has left home in a fit of Drunkenness. He dropped the t and — of pistols from his — with the l. "I am of whom I am told." He left home in a fit of drunkenness.
